

CYNTHIA P. MCCAGUE

Cynthia McCague is the retiring Senior Vice President and global Head of Human Resources for The Coca-Cola Company. She has worked across the global Coca-Cola business system almost for twenty eight years. Over the past five and a half years, Cynthia has helped guide the creation of the company's journey to sustainable growth, 'The Manifesto for Growth'. Grounded in the Manifesto, the Company has rapidly implemented a thorough, well integrated approach to developing the talent needed now and in the future to deliver exceptional results. The Human Resources function is also undergoing a worldwide transformation to be prepared to help the Company deliver its' 2020 Vision.

She is a respected leader, strategic partner and trusted advisor to senior executives, emerging top talent, and senior women. Cynthia is known for her passion and commitment to driving growth for the business, her courageous communication style, and for her coaching and personal investment in developing talent and true leaders.

Prior to her career with the Coca-Cola system, Cynthia worked in manufacturing and local government. She was the Personnel Director of Alachua County, Florida, early in her career. A native of the United States, she holds dual U.S. and British citizenship. Cynthia has worked in over forty countries and lived in six countries on three continents. Her experiences in her life and work have allowed Cynthia to become a true global citizen and executive, demonstrating an ability to lead and influence results across a wide range of cultures globally.

Cynthia is a graduate of the University of Florida, with a B.S. in Journalism and Communications.

She is a member of Human Resources 50, a community of the most senior HR executives from respected and successful multi-national companies. Cynthia chairs the Shepherd Spinal Center Foundation Board in Atlanta, and serves on the Corporate Leadership Council for the Global Fund for Women. In 2009, she was cited by Business to Business Magazine as one of ten "Women of Excellence."

Cynthia and her husband, Jonathan, are making Sarasota, Florida their home base as they transition to "Chapter Two."